

UC CONSORTIUM
FOR LANGUAGE
LEARNING & TEACHING

Distinguished Lecture Series

Alison Phipps

Professor of Languages and Intercultural Studies
University of Glasgow

“Space to Language: Being Intercultural in a Breathless World”

Friday, March 6, 2009

5:15-6:30pm

LIVE VIDEOCONFERENCE with UCI

Kerr Hall, Studio C (UCSB)

Please join us prior to Professor Phipps’s lecture for a
Wine and Cheese Reception

4:45-5:15pm

Alison Phipps is Director of the Centre for Studies in Faith, Culture and Education at the University of Glasgow.

Her books include Acting Identities (2000), Modern Languages: Learning and Teaching in an Intercultural Field (2004; with M. Gonzalez) and Critical Pedagogy: Political Approaches to Languages and Intercultural Communication (ed. 2004; with M. Guilherme), and Learning the Arts of Linguistic Survival: Tourism, Linguaging, Life (2007).

This event is held in conjunction with a two-day working-group symposium:
“Critical and Intercultural Theory and Language Pedagogy,” at UC Irvine March 6-8, which is generously sponsored by

UCI Composition Program
Dean of Humanities
Department of Classics and the Thesaurus Linguae Graecae
Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures
Department of French & Italian
Department of German
Department of Spanish & Portuguese
Global Cultures Program
Humanities Language Learning Program
UCI Humanities Center
International Center for Writing and Translation
UC Consortium for Language Learning and Teaching
UCI Office of Research